MESSAGE

It really fills my heart with immense joy and pride to have expressed my goodwill for Rabindranath Tagore University, Hojai Assam. The university, which is set up in reverence to the first Asian Noble Laureate in Literature Gurudev Ranbindranath Tagore, is the vision manifestation for liberalizing higher education in our state. I take the opportunity to welcome everybody to this enriching website of Rabindranath Tagore University, which I am sure will serve as an essential interactive tool to acquaint you with the university family.

Though the university is apparently young in its pursuits of imparting higher education, its journey so far has been very impressive in promoting higher education, research and innovation in our state. The university has already become a potential force in spreading its strength and inspiration to fortify the edifice of higher education in our state.

The growing interaction between the university fraternity and the intelligentsia across the domain essentially proves the profound commitment of the university to creating a niche in cutting-edge technology and research. Aligned with its vision of becoming an institution of national and global eminence, the university seeks to provide an inspiring atmosphere to its students to become a purposeful force in becoming a primary engine for social, economic and intellectual development.

The university through its academic endeavour also aspires to foster a scholarly community engrossed in knowledge sharing, quality research, co-curricular and socially beneficial activities to empower our human resources navigate through challenges of life.

It is heartening that the university initiated a series of progressive steps to keep pace with the changing demands and meeting the needs of the students. Moreover, the university is passionately working for holistic approach and churning the knowledge and virtues of the students to make them second to none. I hope the website becomes a mirror to feature the vision, mission and goals of the university.

Looking forward to your frequent visit and sustained cooperation.
